ABSTRACT

The Parent-Child Reading System, a way of organizing instructional materials for reading so that parents can become continuously involved in helping to improve their children's reading abilities, may be used in connection with family learning center (FLC) workshops, in schools, or in institutions maintaining contact with schools. This document, acting as a bridge between the theoretical diagnosis of the child's reading needs and the instructional material necessary, tells the parent and the FLC specialist what materials to pull from the resource file. Only one of these manuals is needed for each FLC site. (JM)

001

Given an individualized study center with entry and exit procedures, the student operates within those procedures without wasting time.

(After several days in the center, a student should be coming in and going to work quickly and preparing to leave without wasting time. When this occurs for three or more days, the student should be given credit for this objective.)

[] When you can go to work quickly and put away materials well before you leave you will get credit for this objective.

Given an individualized learning center, the student can locate all materials he may be assigned to use.

(After a few days in the center observe the student to see if this objective has been carried out. Use materials location drills for practice if controlled observation is required.)

[] You must be able to find all the materials you will use in this room. When you can do this you will receive credit for this objective from your teacher.

Given a self-directing piece of material, the student can explain the material to another student so work in the material can be initiated.

(Students should be given credit for this objective when they can use all materials they are likely to read for operating the center for a month or more.)

[] When you are able to explain spectral kinds of materials to another student you will receive credit for this objective.

Given a prescription requiring use of audio-visual equipment, the student operates the equipment and completes the accompanying lessons.

Given a procedure for participating in a book conference, the student follows the tasks required to complete the book conference.

After completion of an assignment which produces a percentage right score, the student uses a chart to figure percentage.

(This objective is complete when the student demonstrates ten or more times that he can use a conversion chart to figure percentage.)

The student keeps all assigned records according to instructions.

(After completing any assignment, the student uses prescribed methods of checking his work and recording his success.

Given a learning center, the student describes processes of prescription, study, record keeping, and contracting to visitors.

(Give the student credit for this only after he makes the necessary explanation. A good technique is to invite parents after the center is in operation. Students explain the center operation to their parents who certify the students have reached the objective.)

[] When you have explained the room to a visitor you will receive credit for this objective.

After reaching an objective, the student gives necessary assistance to another person working on the same objective.

(This objective is given when a student helps another gain an objective. In other teacher assessed objectives activities requiring assistance of another student are indicated. The helping student receives credit for this objective.)

Given a series of sounds, the student can describe loud and soft (intensity), long and short (duration) and repeat them.

Given a passage of reading, the student writes one sentence to correctly summarize the main idea.

• S.E.O.

SKPac (Red) 10 All

 [] Read 10 paragraphs you choose. For each paragraph write the author's main idea in 10 words or less.

[] Read a book. In 100 words or less write the most important idea the author wants you to remember from the book.

• [] After reading a short book write down the main idea the author wants you to remember. Then discuss this main idea with other students to see if you can find another book with a similar main idea. Read the second book and discuss the similarity and differences between the main ideas in the two books.

Main idea in literature is sometimes called theme. Read a book recommended by your teacher and discuss with an adult the theme of the book.

.304

• [] Find three nursery stories with the same theme and then try to find another more sophisticated book with the same theme by discussing with other students.

• [] Read a book and cut words from a magazine or newspaper that could be used as a title for the book.

·402

Given dialogue in a story, the student points out speeches inconsistent with a character.

·403

Given a fictional or biographical selection and a series of traits from a story he has read, the student identifies the character they pertain to.

.404

Given a character with unrealistic attributes, the student identifies the unreal traits.

- S.E.O.
- [] Read a book suggested by your teacher and discuss the traits which suggest a character is unreal or peculiar.

Given a fictional or biographical selection, the student lists a series of adjectives describing the character.

- S.E.O.
- [] Read a book and select one character to report on. Write down twenty five words you can think of or find in the book to describe the character.
- [] Read a book. Cut a picture from a magazine that reminds you of the character. Then cut out words from the magazine that describe the character and make a poster.
- [] Dress a manikin or doll to depict one character in a book you have read.
 On The Move 86-87

·406

Given a fictional or biographical selection, the student locates direct statements made by the author in the story to tell the traits of a character.

- S.E.O.
- [] Read a book. Find and write 15 short statements from the book where the author tells you directly what kind of person the main character is.

·407

Given a selection in which a character is under stress, the student indicates the forces that cause that stress.

- S.E.O.
- [] Read a book in which a character is in difficulty and discuss with your teacher the reasons for what has led to that difficulty.
- Read a book or play in which a character has problems. Point out errors if any that the character has made to cause his problems.
- [] Read a book and discuss with your teacher one important problem a character faces and tell how he solves it.
- [] After reading a book about a person who might be considered "different" or "strange" by other people, discuss the reasons the book suggests for the strangeness of the person.
- [] After reading a book select the most unhappy character and tell why he is unhappy.

Given a selection in which a main character is recognized, and a series of actions, the student summarizes the characterization.

- S.E.O.
- [] Read a book about a person then write a short story placing that character in another setting. (You can change place or time. George Washington could be placed in Alaska or in space exploration times.)
- [] After reading a book in which an important character does not get what he or she wants, tell how that person adjusts to his failure.
- [] Read a book and select the most carefree character in the book. Tell the reasons for his happiness.
- [] Read a book and discuss the good and bad qualities of a character with other students who have also read the book. Decide if you would want the person in your classroom and tell why.
- [] Read a book suggested by your teacher and discuss how a character in the book suffers or prospers because of devotion to ideals or principles.
- [] Read a book and tell why you would want to be the same or different from the main character. Talk about the character's personality, not what happens to him or her.
- [] Read a book suggested by your teacher and tell how a very small incident alters an entire life or lives.
- [] Read a book and then list 10 personality traits of the main character and tell how these traits influenced the actions of this character.

• 409

Given a fictional or biographical selection, the student locates actions of a character that define his traits.

- S.E.O.
- [] After reading a book having a main character find 10 actions of the character that tell you the kind of person he or she is.
- [] Read two books with main characters who perform similar actions.

 Discuss with your teacher the personalities of the two characters.

 Are they the same or different?
- [] Read a book and write a short biography of the main character.
